SAFE Measures to strengthen ownership at the sectoral level

• Abstract:

This journal highlights the implementation of Sectoral Ownership and WSH measures aimed at enhancing safety and reducing workplace incidents in specific sectors. The discussed SAFE measures encompass the introduction of a demerit point system for the manufacturing sector, mandatory video surveillance systems (VSS) for high-risk construction sites, adherence to additional standards for machineries and combustible dust, and the expansion of legal duties for manufacturers and suppliers. Furthermore, it provides insights into forthcoming safety requirements and new measures for government construction tenders.

• Introduction:

The significance of workplace safety and health (WSH) cannot be overstated, particularly in sectors prone to hazards and accidents. To address these concerns, the Singapore government has introduced a series of measures to reinforce sectoral oversight and elevate safety standards. This journal delves into the key initiatives and their anticipated impact on workplace safety.

• Demerit Point System for the Manufacturing Sector:

The demerit point system (DPS) will be expanded to include the manufacturing sector, effective from October 2023. The DPS aims to deter WSH breaches by assigning demerit points based on the severity of violations. This system holds companies accountable for their adherence to the Workplace Safety and Health Act, thereby instilling a higher level of safety consciousness in the manufacturing industry. The demerit point system serves as a tool to ensure compliance and encourages proactive measures to prevent workplace incidents.

• Video Surveillance System for Construction Sites:

From June 2024, all construction sites with a project value of $5 million and above will be mandated to install video surveillance systems (VSS). The VSS will provide real-time monitoring capabilities, aid in the identification of workplace safety and health (WSH) risks, facilitate incident investigation, and promote the adoption of safer work practices. By implementing VSS in high-risk areas of construction sites, a safer working environment can be established, reducing the occurrence of accidents and enhancing the overall safety culture within the construction industry.

- Safe Use of Machineries and Combustible Dust:

To address the risks associated with industrial machineries and combustible dust, additional standards will be imposed on manufacturers, suppliers, and users. These standards, based on recommendations from the Tuas Explosion Inquiry Committee, aim to promote safer practices and minimize the occurrence of accidents. By enhancing legal duties, companies will be obligated to ensure the safety of industrial machines, equipment, and hazardous substances during their use. This proactive approach will contribute to a safer working environment and mitigate potential risks.

- Strengthened Safety Requirements in Government Construction Tenders:

To prioritize safety in public construction projects, stringent safety requirements and new measures will be incorporated into government procurement processes. The establishment of harmonized workplace safety and health (WSH) criteria will extend the Safety Disqualification Framework, ensuring that only contractors with a minimum safety performance can participate in tenders. Additionally, a minimum safety weightage for tender evaluation and the introduction of additional WSH requirements will further emphasize safety as a key consideration in government construction projects. These measures will promote a safety-centric culture and encourage contractors to prioritize the well-being of workers.

- Conclusion:

The implementation of SAFE measures demonstrates the Singapore government's commitment to fostering a culture of safety and accountability across sectors. By strengthening sectoral ownership and enforcing stringent safety measures, workplace incidents can be minimized, and the well-being of workers can be prioritized. These proactive steps will pave the way for a safer and healthier working environment in Singapore, benefiting not only the workforce but also the overall productivity and sustainability of industries.

THE OLD CARPENTER

A carpenter with many years of experience was ready to retire. He announced to his contractor his plans to leave the house building to live a more relaxed retired life with his wife and family. The contractor felt a little upset that his good and experienced carpenter was leaving the job, but he requested the carpenter to build another house for him.

The carpenter agreed with the contractor, but his heart was not in his work as it used to be. He worked quickly and carelessly and used inferior materials to build the last house of his career. It was an awful way to end his career. When the carpenter finished the house and the employer came to inspect the house.

He looked around the house and, just before leaving the house, he handed the key to the carpenter. "This is your house," he said, "my special present to you." Although it should be a good surprise, he did not feel good as he felt a deep shame inside him. If only he had known he was building his own house, he would have done it all differently. Now he had to live in a home that wasn't built so well.

MORAL

As a carpenter, we build our lives in a distracted way, reacting rather than acting, willing to line up with less rather than the best. Give your best. Your attitudes and the choices you make today will be your life tomorrow, build it with care.

Our MD Mr Murugesh presented the monthly Trainer Excellence Pathway (TEP) Certificate of Appreciation for July 2023's Exemplar Trainer.
